BIGHEART is a thriving town of 2,000 population, on the Midland Valley railroad some thirty miles north of Tulsa, in the heart of the Osage oil field. There are a lot of wide-awake merchants here and it is only a matter of a short time until the population is doubled. At the present time there is one bank, the Bank of Bigheart, of which J. R. McCoy is the active head. Under his able management the bank has increased its deposits from $90,000 to over $300,000 in just a little over a year. There is another bank being organized. One of the finest garages in this part of the country is the Brown Garage, a modern fire-proof building with a capacity of over fifty cars. These people are the agents for Dodge Brothers cars. Another new garage is the Main Street Garage, of which S. M. Lane is the proprietor. Watkins & Brumelle have an up-to-date vulcanizing plant and carry a line of tires and accessories. The lumber companies are well represented here by the Rounds & Porter Co. and the Tulsa Rig & Reel Co.

A drug store, the Rexall, owned by O. E. Goldsmith, the mayor of the town, is more complete than is usually found in a town of this size. Mr. Runyon, the proprietor of the Gem theater, is making a lot of improvements and enlarging the seating capacity of his theater. Among the groceries carrying good stocks are the Ausmus grocery, Bob George and T. C. Hamm. The Bigheart Meat Market is an ideal shop of its kind and also carries a stock of groceries. G. R. Little, one of the early residents of Bigheart, has a fine department store. There is also an exclusive millinery store here run by Mrs. Orpha Havens. There is one bakery, the Palace of Sweets, with a confectionery in connection. Another confectionery is Hart's Confectionery and Variety Store. There is a dandy hotel here, the Hotel Midland, under the management of Gorda Orme, who raises her own chickens, which assures the traveling public of plenty of good things to eat and good, clean beds in which to sleep. A good restaurant is Our Cafe; the prices are reasonable and everything is clean and well served. Last, but not least, when you get here don't fail to give Wm. Hughes a call. He runs the Exchange Smokehouse, the headquarters for the oil men, has good billiard and pool tables and plenty of cold drinks. If he hasn't got the brand of tobacco or cigarette you smoke, let him know and he will get them for you. The largest industry in Bigheart is the Bigheart Refining company, located in the corporate limits of the town.

Nearby are several other gasoline plants, affording work for a great number of people, most of whom live with their families in Bigheart. Mr. Hamm, the secretary of the school board, is very enthusiastic over the schools in this district and is agitating a further bond issue to build a new high school building, which, owing to the increased population, is badly needed. Contracts are to be let in a few days for a waterworks and sewer system, the bonds having been voted for and finances arranged.

The Midland Valley is to build a new depot and add more trackage, the present buildings being entirely inadequate for the immense business coming in at this point.

There are over 100 strings of tools operating within a radius of seven miles from this point, and the territory on all sides is practically proven up.

Bigheart would welcome a practical newspaper man, who would start a paper with a job shop in connection; could use another doctor, there being only one practicing physician here at the present time. Mr. Gray of Chandler is building an ice plant, which will be in operation this summer.
